

Security Engineer

80-100%, Zürich

We are a team of security specialists whose goal it is to protect companies of all types and sizes against current threats and to simplify the operation of their IT infrastructure.

With our innovative and high-quality services, we support ourw customers in protecting against cyber threats continuously and efficiently.

To complement our team in Zurich, we are looking for an additional specialist for the Security Engineering and Operations department. Your new work location will be in Zurich South, in the up-and-coming neighbourhood on Maneggstrasse.

Your tasks

- Implementation of IT security projects based on our managed security services for customers, and associated documentation
- Support of consulting projects of our customers from architecture to implementation of security solutions
- New and further development of our managed and cloud services as well as the optimization of quality assurance
- Active involvement in the design of our services
- Detection of security related events and vulnerabilities
- Using and optimizing our existing tools to increase service quality
- Supporting your colleagues in pre-sales and developing proof of concepts with the known technologies

Your profile

- Proficient in the use of common security monitoring tools such as, SIEM, Network Detection and Response, Vulnerability Management and EDR
- Experience in incident response, incident management, and work experience from a SOC a plus
- Outstanding communication and presentation skills
- Analytical thinking and acting
- Structured and discreet way of working
- Willingness to constantly develop professionally
- Very good written and spoken German and English skills
- Confident appearance

What we offer

Young, innovative team

Development and training opportunities

Contemporary employment conditions, hybrid work model

Modern office space

Open work culture

Have we sparked your interest? Let us know what motivates you.